Gale Virtual Reference Library Searching Tutorial

A collection of reference and nonfiction eBooks

At home you will need the Gale Databases user name and password from the library’s Gold Sheet.
Select Advanced Search
Use your Keyword Organizer to build your search. Make sure you select Keyword.
Articles are sorted by Relevance.
You may limit your search by document type, publication title, or subject.
Click on the hyperlinked article title.
Five: Cyberbullying Should Be a Federal Crime

Federal Protection Against Cyberbullying?

Peer Influence

Bullying Must Have Consequences

Lauren Barack

Lauren Barack is a journalist living in Manhattan. In the following viewpoint, Barack discusses the recent testimony before Congress of students, educators, and parents urging the federal government to take action against perpetrators of cyberbullying. Representative Linda Sánchez of California recently proposed a bill named for a victim of cyberbullying: the Megan Meier Cyberbullying Prevention Act. Sánchez contends that cyberbullying is hurtful behavior that can happen at any time and in any place and that victims of cyberbullying deserve protection. She adds that laws criminalizing cyberbullying can be crafted to protect free speech while criminalizing speech that is intended to harm the victim.

Students, educators, and a parent whose son committed suicide after a year of bullying recently testified before Congress urging the federal government to intervene.
Five: Cyberbullying Should Be a Federal Crime

Federal Protection Against Cyberbullying?

Peer Influence

Bullying Must Have Consequences

Lauren Barack

Lauren Barack is a journalist living in Manhattan. In the following viewpoint, Barack discusses the recent testimony before Congress of students, educators, and parents urging the federal government to take action against perpetrators of cyberbullying. Representative Linda Sánchez of California recently proposed a bill named for a victim of cyberbullying: the Megan Meier Cyberbullying Prevention Act. Sánchez contends that cyberbullying is hurtful behavior that can happen at any time and in any place and that victims of cyberbullying deserve protection. She adds that laws criminalizing cyberbullying can be crafted to protect free speech while criminalizing speech that is intended to harm the victim.

Students, educators, and a parent whose son committed suicide after a year of bullying recently testified before Congress urging the federal government to intervene.
Be sure to consult the Printing Tutorial before printing your article!